

My School As Seen By Me

□ Saurav Ghosh

Ex-Student of Kamakhya Vidyalaya

Kamakhya Vidyalaya, a great name in the list of Bengali medium schools of Assam is carrying the reputation of being a great institution of primary and secondary education for the last five decades.

Inspite of constant migration of modern day people from regional education to English education, one can never deny that this is one of the institutions that is still playing the role of a pioneer to promote regional language education in this part of the country standing still and competing alone with the private institutions. The constant inclination of human mind towards private schools is a great threat to the regional language education raising concerns for the supporters for the regional language education.

What are those that we cannot provide to our students in our school? The whole drama is circling around that particular question only. One answer to this particular question is inherent in the mind setup of the parents of the student that makes them divert their attention to the private organization and that is why most of the students getting admitted to the private schools and making the institution proud by their skills. Inspite of having the very good faculty members we are unable to change the trend.

But the real fact is somewhere unseen --- that the students who passed out from our school not only succeeded in every field of life but also went ahead of the people coming out of private organization. I cannot count name of every individual as the list is quite long. They made marks in their respective fields challenging once again the doubts of common people of the standard of education in such kind of organization like ours. Wherever you go -- in the engineering field, in the field of mathematics, physics, banking, education you will count the number of people who were once attached with your organization. Infact some has achieved the highest standards of life making you feel proud and making you feel once again that you are the part of a great institution. You can learn the basic qualities of human life from them; they are polite, they fill in you with lot of enthusiasm which will make you feel that you can be the best.

But the aspects in which we are lagging behind from the students of private organization in some form at the primary level is our confidence that make us feel inferior to them. They may be doing well at the primary and secondary level; but at higher education when the skill is actually tested, you will find that we are not falling behind, in fact we are actually exhibiting our efficiency to the highest level. The goal setup is important at the very beginning; if you are planning to go to the field of physics your vision about physics should be clear ; you have the best guidance behind you ; you start your journey, you will find that your basics you learn at the school level are strong enough to meet the challenges. This is the truth and that is the outcome of ten years of experience.

The achievements of people from our institution, working in the field "CFD (Computational Fluid Dynamics), Software development, Defense developments, Nuclear Research are really surprising and can never be taken if lightly or taking it just as a mere lucky opportunity. One point that is not to be forgotten is that communication skill is of prime importance in modern day world and that is that field where improvement is required. Some names can be cited as examples who have registered noticeable success in BPO sector overcoming the drawback of poor communication skill.

At last we should feel proud to be attached with such a great institution which has taught the art of fight in life, to live with honour and respect. Be confident, success is waiting for you with wide open hands to embrace you and taking you to the top of the world. But in the race of success and development we must not forget the very basic thing —

"IT IS NICE TO BE IMPORTANT, BUT IS MORE IMPORTANT TO BE NICE".
